

“Serving Our Community, While Learning: Service-Learning and Professional Development at UNI”

Dr. Lazarus Adua is offering his students the opportunity for Service-Learning by reaching out to the Cedar Valley in designing class projects. In the Program and Policy Evaluation class this semester, students are partnering with the local Waterloo non-profit organization, House of Hope, that runs a two-year transitional home for single mothers. This partnership is mutually beneficial — House of Hope receives evaluation instruments (e.g., in-take, process and outcome) for their organization that can be used over a long period of time. Students benefit as they are engaged in their local community, and learning essential skills that will assist them in their futures in the helping careers.

Dr. Lazarus Adua, Assistant Professor of Sociology, UNI

Students from the Program and Policy Evaluation course

This event is sponsored by the Sociology, Anthropology & Criminology Dept. (SAC),
CSBS, The Office of the President, & CETL.

Wednesday, April 19, 2017

7:00-8:30pm Scholar Space, Rod Library

Refreshments will be provided

Diversity Colloquium