The media play an important role in constructing social reality, shaping our beliefs about crime and justice, and influencing criminal justice policy. This presentation focuses on the depictions of race, gender, crime, and (in)justices presented in prime-time crime fictional television programs, news media, and other popular culture outlets, and the significant consequences of these inaccurate media portrayals.

Sponsored by the Department of Sociology, Anthropology & Criminology, the College of Social & Behavioral Sciences, the Office of the President, and the Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning.
